Movement of Troops.

Gen. John E. Smith's division, which has been at Helena for some time, and which was recently ordered back to Vicksburg, has had its orders countermanded and they now go to Memphis. The 12th battery is in this division, and the boys were "all well and in good spirits" on the 26th. They hope to garrison the city or outpost, but this is very uncertain.

There is a general movement of troops on the Mississippi river; boats are crowded with troops coming up, while the cars are full on the Louisville and Nashville railroad. We presume the Memphis and Charleston road will be speedily opened. All movements now seem to point towards Chattanooga.

DARK NOT PUBLISH IT.—The Chicago Times and Cincinnati Enquirer suppressed the regular telegraphic dispatch giving an extract from the Richmond Enquirer in these words:

"Defeated at Chattanooga and driven back on Nashville, the Vallandigham men would carry the election in Ohio next month with little difficulty. The peace men in the United States would once more assert their manhood, and speak out as they did before the late confederate disasters had choked their utterances, &c."

Now, what is the object of the suppression of this regular news paragraph? Do not the readers of those papers perceive that it is a strong proof that the rebels and copperheads are in partnership? Let those who put faith in such leaders beware of them. Their course is dangerous and full of peril to men who are duped into the belief that a sacred political principle is at stake, and who are being led into treason, under the guise of aiding that party. No man should continue to support a party whose victories at the polls grow and flourish by the shedding of the blood of our soldiers in the field. According to the above extract the more of Rosecrans' men are killed the greater will be Vallandigham's prospects of success; and so of the "peace party" everywhere.

BEATEN BY FORCE OF NUMBERS.—Though outnumbered by the enemy in the late battle, says the Cincinnati Commercial, the Army of the Cumberland was very large. General Rosecrans had no superfluous forces at any point. His reserves were up, and put into the fight just when and where they were needed. In many of our battles it has been said we were beaten or failed to attain complete success, because the commanding generals did not use all their troops. There have been occasions when we have been beaten in one part of the field, and have had ample forces near, but not engaged to have changed the aspect of affairs. Will the critics be so good as to observe that every brigade south of the Tennessee river was fought to the extent of its capacity—that there is not one of them that will not have casualty lists to show? The Army of the Cumberland was driven back upon Chattanooga not by the superior fighting or generalship of the enemy, but by the pressure of numbers; and the vast host collected to crush Rosecrans at a blow, was so mangled and shaken by the two days' combat as to be unable to improve their advantages. The rebel press is in full cry that the result is a defeat unless the Army of the Cumberland is destroyed; and the symptoms of its destruction certainly have not been on the increase within a week.

A DEAD-HEAD.—Last Sunday, in an eastern village, when the plate was being passed in church, a newly appointed editor said to the collector, "Go on—I'm a dead-head—I've got a pass."

SELLING THE FIRST BALE OF NEW COTTON.—The first bale of cotton raised under the free labor system established by Gen. Banks in Louisiana, was recently sold in New Orleans, realizing $7½ per pound.

Gloomy.—The weather.

Caroline; he seized her wrist, a feeble guttural pulse vibrated thrillingly to his touch.

She opened her eyes, gazed around her, saw the surgeon, and all his accompanying horrors. She sprang from the board, and threw herself at his feet; her own disarray affected her not, the feelings of this world she believed had passed forever; but in the most earnest accents, she articulated: "I know not whether I am in the presence of God or a devil, but I am innocent!" "Innocent!" repeated Ebbeson, in his sepulchral voice. "Yes," she continued, wringing her hands, "in pity torture me not for say that this dismal place is but purgatory—that I do deserve, for I did carry a knife about me, that I might put an end to my own life, rather than be his, but of the crime for which I suffered, he knows me guiltless; and thou, terrible being I cannot read in my soul that I speak the truth. Oh! thou look'st just! this will not last eternally. Spare, save me! and I will worship thee!" Such an appeal, in such circumstances, and under such a delusion could not for a moment be doubted. Ebbeson, in a transport of gratitude, poured over that dear bruised throat the vinegar, which he had kept at hand, as a disinfectant, weeping forth, "Be calm, my child, and fear me not—be calm, and I will protect you, who believed and will protect you. This earth, and the life so miraculously preserved, shall be endeared to you." Instantly screening her limbs from the chill air, he led her to his own room, consigned her to bed, and brought her food and wine, while his servant slept; and would have left her to rest, but that her state still bordered on delirium, he sat all night, like an elder brother, beside her. But now, what was to be done? To announce her existence to the world, cruelly as it had used her, and branded as was her lowly name, might but provoke fresh persecution; she had no power to prove the crimes of Gortz; her new benefactor's bare assertion of her innocence would not have impressed others with a like conviction; for Ebbeson was, as yet, an obscure and needy man. The only course left for her was to fly, call herself something else, and in a distant part of the country live in retirement; but how could she gain a living, while unable to mix with her kind? Ebbeson resolved never to abandon her; he could toil for them both. Caroline would no longer be exclusively his, he thought, if he shared the knowledge of her life with his dearest friend. He had one brother in the place, a Catholic curate. Locking up his treasure, he stole out ere dawn, awakened this holy man, and borrowed all his money by telling him that death and a quarrel, consequent on a heavy marriage, forced him to change his name and residence. The priest charged him himself with forwarding all goods. Ebbeson then hired a swift conveyance, bade Caroline array herself in his attire, and packed up his books, instruments, wardrobe and started.

When his servant rose, the curate was ready to account for everything. Ebbeson found in his poor Caroline such intellect and virtue that he married her. The good curate settled with them, and they knew not what had become of Gortz, save that he had left the theatre of his wickedness. One night Frere Basil entered their abode with a face of dismay. "Brother," he said, "I come from a shocking sight, the death of a despairing sinner. I was called in to administer the consolations of religion to an aged man, who has not long resided here. He will have no physician, though the people about him think he cannot see without an emetic; yet poverty is not the sole cause of his recklessness. He refused the last sacrament, calling himself unworthy of it; so I hastened to secure your charitable aid." "What is the unhappy patient's name?" asked the wife.

"Gortz, sister."

"Now all gentle saints be praised!" she cried, "no questions, brother, our neighbor, the notary, must accompany us. Play heaven we are not too late!" This party accordingly hurried to the wretched abode of the dying man. As they entered his chamber they heard him rave: "Talk not to me of sealed confessions—the whole world gaped on his degradation, and I have wandered for twenty years, like the accursed undying Israelite; still norest from that thought. I can give ye nothing, mercenary. If ye find any gold, bury it at the gallows foot, or lay it out in masses—but not a hope of pardon, for thy murderer, innocent Lina!"

Caroline drew aside his curtain. At first he stared without recognition. When she called him by name, believing that he beheld her spirit, he coweringly hid his face; but she, removing his hands from his eyes, whispered, "Peter Gortz! take courage. I bring you peace and pardon. You are no murderer. The queen of heaven enabled her true servant wonderfully to save me from death and you from despair. I am a happy wife and mother. Youder is my husband, come to serve you if he can."

The moment Gortz was assured of her life, he started up—and retributive justice again begged for one hour's—for but one half hour's breath. "Some potent restoration," he cried, "my poor girl's name must be cleared to all the world, and as much as she can do, she will do."

The draught was given—the notary was ready. To him Peter deposed that, believing Caroline thought herself entirely dependent and in his power, her rejection of his suit and threats of departure had stung him to vindictive madness. She told him she had packed up, ready to set forth with the first light, and insisted on leaving the house to seek a conveyance, telling him that she had left her trunk open—he might search it if he would, for she had stolen nothing. These brave words gave his hitherto indefinite desire for revenge a feasible shape; and during her absence he had actually sewn into her raiment the plate and money, which he concealed at the bottom of her box, leaving it apparently just as he had found it; and, when she returned, bidding her farewell with a semblance of reluctance, he retired for the night. Having made this statement, he formally consigned the whole of his long hoarded wealth to her, and sank into a peaceful slumber, from which he never woke in this world.

Sea-bathing costumes in France are regulated by the government, which regulates everything. A writer, speaking of their effects on the wearers, says that the men resemble war statues, not much like Apollo, and the women look "like magnified brown rats on their hind legs."

The patriots of the revolution are fast passing away, and soon the last will be summoned to his final resting place. The youngest of them now is about 94 years of age. On the 1st of July, 1862, there were but 62 of them living, since which time over one-third of the number have died.

Hear Gen. Grant: "I am not an abolitionist, I never was an anti-slavery man, but I try to judge everything honestly and fairly. I am satisfied that the north and the south can never live in peace except as one nation, and that a free nation."

It is announced that Lieut. Frank E. Brownell, the avenger of Ellsworth, has been ordered before the military rifting board, with a view of his retirement from the service. His health is broken down.

Last Night's Report.

CAPE RACE, Sept. 29.

The Europa passed Cape Race at 3:30 p.m. today. She was boarded by the news yacht.

The political news is unimportant. Rumor says the confederate envoy at London is to be withdrawn in consequence of the meanness of the British government.

In a letter from Richmond in the confederate organ the writer speaks of the probable early recall of the representatives of the south from England on account of the attitude of the British government.

The London Star fears that it is the intention of the French government to speedily recognize the confederate states. It adduces various acts and demonstrations to justify the belief, and comes to the conclusion that we must be prepared for French recognition before long.

The London Herald, advertising to the rumored probable recall of Mason from London, says it is in consequence of the systematic rudeness with which he has been treated by Russell. The Herald thinks that it has been through the suggestion of Mr. Adams that Mr. Mason has been excluded from official intercourse with the British government.

The Paris correspondent of the Morning Post says that a new loan for the confederacy is contemplated.

The French government has certainly not thrown any difficulty in the way of the Florida. Capt. Moffat resigned command of the Florida on account of ill health. Lieut. Barney probably takes command.

One of the reasons for the decline of the Paris bourse, is the apprehension by some operators that the decisions in the case of Florida may lead to some unpleasant feelings between the French and federal governments.

The Paris Press says that the English journals are mistaken in looking upon the note lately published in the Moniteur respecting the Florida as a step towards the recognition of the confederates.

It was merely a recognition of belligerent rights. If the emperor's government believed itself bound to recognize the confederates and establish official relations at all, it would do so openly and not by indirect means.

The bourse is firm; rates closed at 68½-45c.

Rev. Mr. Stuart, late a chaplain in the rebel army, has been lecturing before the Southern Club of Liverpool. He charged the New England clergy with instigating this war, and asserted that the war would end when President Lincoln loses clerical support. He declared that the south had the means for carrying on the war for years to come; but was nevertheless, ready to lay down the sword and leave the question at issue to the ballot.

The Paris Opinions Nationale believes itself able to state that the English cabinet, fearing that France may take possession of Mexico, is strongly endeavoring to persuade the Emperor of Austria to consent to the acceptance of the throne by Maximilian.

The same paper says a Mexican loan is spoken of, to be effected in London as soon as the Archduke is officially proclaimed.

The Emperor also said that eight thousand Irishmen would be enrolled in service in the new empire. These statements caused a material improvement in Mexican securities.

LONDON.—The Times city article remarks that the employment of Irish troops is calculated to prevent the United States from undertaking any aggression on the new monarchy.

The Russian reply to the English note is published. It professes an ardent desire to restore tranquility in Poland.

The Madrid Epoch asserts that the cabinets of Washington and Madrid have determined to submit the question of jurisdiction in the Cuban waters to the arbitration of the King of the Belgians.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.

The Missouri delegation called upon President Lincoln to-day by appointment, and presented through their chairman, Mr. Drake, an address containing alleged grievances, and asking for a change of military commandant in the department of Missouri.

The president received the address, and promised to give it a careful consideration, and furnish a reply as soon as practicable.

A free, untrammelled discussion took place, a confidential interview, no reporters of the press were present.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.

Francis J. Grund, recently editor of the Philadelphia Age, which paper he left on account of its politics, died suddenly this morning. Mr. G.'s death was caused by a fit of apoplexy, excited by the appearance of a crowd before his residence, who were on their way to serenade Gen. McClellan and Judge Woodward.

Mr. Grund ran in haste to the station house, where he fell exhausted, and ten minutes afterward he expired.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.

Sales of 5-20's to-day amounted $1,101,050. The heaviest sale for two months' deliveries of bonds are made to the 28th of September.

MORNING DISPATCHES.

New York, Oct. 1.

The Richmond Examiner of the 29th says: Gen. Lee has officially communicated to the war department that Howard's and Sloum's corps of the Army of the Potomac have gone to Rosecrans. It is also said that Rosecrans has been reinforced by Grant to the amount of 16,000 men.

The Examiner says Gen. Lee will act as his military judgment best directs.

The Dispatch of the 26th says that the New Orleans Era says that the most disastrous reverses have occurred to the federals in Louisiana. This concurs with rumors that Weitzel has been defeated and killed by Gen. Dick Taylor at Napoleon, La.

Gen. Bragg states the fruits of the battle at Chickamauga at seven thousand prisoners, of whom 2,000 are wounded, 36 pieces of artillery, 25 standards and colors and guidons, and over 16,000 small arms. General Lee, on the 24th, a congressional order to the army of Virginia on Bragg's victory. An Atlanta dispatch says Bragg, in reply to Rosecrans' request for permission to bury his dead and relieve the wounded, said he had enough Yankee prisoners to bury the dead, and Yankee surgeons to attend the wounded. Another Atlanta dispatch reports Gen. Wheeler with his cavalry across the Tennessee.

Another dispatch of the same date reports Lookout mountains held by Hood's division, now under Gen. Jenkins. It is not supposed that an assault will be made, as we command the situation, and need not sacrifice our troops. Rosecrans has two lines of defense, sixty yards apart.

Gen. Longstreet commands the river and railroad below Chattanooga. Our loss in killed and wounded will not exceed 12,000. The Yankees lose in killed, wounded and missing will reach 28,000. Five Yankee hospitals are in our hands, full of wounded. On Thursday night the enemy made two attempts on our lines and were driven back both times to their entrenchments.

The Lynchburg Republican of the 28th reports slight skirmishing in upper east Tennessee, near Zollicoffer. A battle in that quarter is hardly probable as Burdette will be forced to retreat to reinforce Rosecrans.

The enemy is evidently making himself impregnable on Morris Island.

A CLEVELAND HIT.—We find the following communication in the London Daily News, of the 8th inst:

"Sir: We were at war with the New Zealanders—we are for empire—they for independence."

What if President Lincoln recognizes their belligerent rights?—and what if New York capitalists take a New Zealand loan—and if an American Laird furnish a New Zealand Alabama and manned by British seamen from the naval reserve, and so on? Why not? and what then.

I am, sir, &c. NEMESIS."

This is but a small crumb, but John Bull can find a great deal of men; in it if he chooses.

Walter's iron foundry and machine shop at Dubuque was destroyed by fire, together with its contents, on Monday afternoon. Loss $13,000, and no insurance.

MARRIED.

DIED.

On the 24th of Sept. 1863, at the post of New Madrid, Mo., WILLIAM A. SILVERMAN, son of Dr. P. D. and Irene Silverman, aged one year and twenty-four days.

Dr. Silverman is a member of the 15th regiment of Wisconsin volunteers, and detailed as hospital steward of this post. He is a resident of your city. His wife was here on a short visit to her husband, and in one week from her arrival was called upon by an afflictive Providence to lay her cherub boy in the grave. The young man, friends were not wanting in this hour of sore trial who sympathized with them and did all in their power to assuage their grief.

Resolved, That in the death of Brother Ira Avery we have lost from our midst one who was endeared to the members of this lodge by his amiable and virtuous conduct his unfeigned attachment to the institution, and his indefatigable fidelity to every trust, over whose discharge his afflicted relatives will drop the silent tear, while we with mournful pleasure will cherish his memory for his many virtues.

Resolved, That we sincerely condole with the afflicted widow and relatives of the deceased over this melancholy bereavement and as society we tender to them our warmest sympathy, and we trust that He who has promised to be the widow's God and father to the fatherless, will administer consolation and relief to their hearts in this gloomy dispensation of his providence.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions under the seal of the lodge be presented to the widow of our deceased brother, and that the foregoing preamble and resolutions be entered upon our minutes.

Resolved, That copies of the above be furnished the Janesville Gazette and Monitor for publication.
